DEDICATION

To Albert F. Simpson, the staff of the 1937
"Rainbow" dedicates this volume --- a token of appreciation for his tireless efforts to promote student activities, for his inspirational instruction in the class room and on the athletic fields, and for his thoroughly wholesome fellowship with the students and colleagues.

FOREWORD

In this volume the staff of the "Rainbow" attempts to give an accurate picture of life on the campus of the Junior College of Augusta and the Academy of Richmond County. The task was great, with heavy responsibilities, but we have tried to reflect credit on our school. If we have failed, our only compensation lies in the knowledge that we have done our best. We hope, as the years pass, that this book will be a source of ever recurring pleasure, as it recalls memories of student interests and activities during the year 1936-37.

THE THEME

The military phase of our school is admittedly rich in achievement and tradition. The staff of the "Rainbow" has therefore attempted to set forth in this year's publication some of the high-lights of the school's military history. We respectfully call attention to the chronological list of facts given below, as an aid to appreciation of the spirit of the 1937 "Rainbow."

1783—Chartered by General Assembly of State of Georgia.

1785—Opened on Bay Street.

1791—Examination of students attended by President George Washington.

1796-98—Wm. H. Crawford, later Secretary of War, a teacher at Academy.

1802—Academy moved to Telfair Street.

1863—Building taken over by Confederate authorities for military hospital.

1868—Academy made essentially a military unit.

1873—Military discontinued.

1882—Military department restored under Captain J. O. Clark.

1888—Again discontinued.

1898—Military department resumed under Major George P. Butler.

1925—Military unit converted into Junior R.O.T.C. Unit by U. S. Government

1935-6-7—Winner of Hearst Trophy for three consecutive years.

"'All-Us' In Wonderland"

(With Apologies to Lewis Carroll)

One sunny morning when humming bees and warm winds made one drowsy, "All-us" lay in the shade of a great tree. Suddenly a dapper little rabbit with a slight moustache on his upper lip and an English book under his arm scurried past. He was looking at his watch and murmuring something about nine o'clock on registration day. "All-us" forsook the comforts and laxity of the summer day to follow this queer little rabbit into a massive building, down long corridors with many doors on each side.

This building was found to contain the queerest sights that "All-us" had ever seen, and many days were spent there. On the first floor was a room filled with all kinds of food. This food made one feel all out of shape, particularly the currant rolls.

"All-us" discovered a very large room presided over by the Mad Hatter, who had a passion for puns, and the Dodo, a pink-faced bird with spectacles on his beak. These two made many announcements, which did nothing but confuse "All-us" terribly, and the Dormouse took full advantage of all opportunities to catch up on his public speaking practice (when he wasn't asleep).

Another silly sight was the wise and serious old caterpillar, who sat on a mushroom (or was it a Musketeer?) smoking a pipe and asking questions that even he couldn't answer. Then there was the Duchess, who was found on the third floor, nursing and "shushing" her noisy, sneezing children.

"All-us" became quite angry. These people were so very queer and there was so much confusion. However, in two years, much can be, and was, learned. This nightmare, which came on the night of registration day, had little effect on the good record that "All-us" of the class of '37 helped to establish.

Prophecy

Dear Ada:

I ran over to Paris a few weeks ago to do some shopping and also to attend the European debut of Mme. Carolyn Creson in "La Boheme." Someone in the next box at the opera applauded as much as I, and when I turned, I was downright thrilled to discover Helen Boardman. She introduced me to her husband, Sheik Abbadalabba, who is ambassador from Arabia.

Helen enthusiastically recommended me to her personal designer, Madame Mustin, who really designs quite striking gowns. In the "shoppe" I picked up a U. S. newspaper and saw that Jim Hungerpillar and Robert McLarty are political candidates for the Presidency, and to think we "knew them when." Also on the next page I happened to see an article by The R. H. Lillian McElmurray, only woman senator.

Across the street I discovered "Chateau De Henna," owned by another classmate of ours, Valerie Mandt. You would never recognize her with her brilliantly tinted curls!

One of my fellow passengers on the boat home was Wm. C. Kitchens, that famous philanthropist, widely known for endowing orphan asylums. He told me that Martha Bailie and her army husband have been transferred to the Philippines. While talking, we stumbled over Bobby Glickert, who was scrubbing the deck. He announced he had joined the navy to see the world.

The day after I arrived home, I rushed around to my interior decorating establishment to be sure all was running smoothly. On my new customers' list were several names from "home." Among them were Robert Gracey, who is now "Uncle Ezra" on the Bedtime Hour for Herman Popkin's Kiddie Shoppe. Mrs. Astorbilt, nee Mary Hill; Robert Ellison, world renowned physician, who discovered that the feet, rather than the heart, are the center of motion.

Sara Wallace has been visiting me for several days, and seems intrigued with her work as Patsy Kelly's stand-in. While in New York, she ordered an emerald ring from Tiffany's. The salesman told her that Elizabeth Joe is now modeling jewelry on her lovely hands.

If you go through Augusta on the way to Palm Beach for the winter season, don't forget to write me the news of the old home town.

As ever,

Camilla.

P. S. Before Sara left we saw Joyce Lawrence compete for the Woman's International championship and win it.

Prophecy

Dear Camilla:

You asked for news; here goes! I was invited to a "swanky" affair at the Colonial home of the Socialite Hattie Mina Reid, last Tuesday night. There were more than a few celebrities present. Ruthie Waler, the second Dorothy Dix, with her "Advice To The Lovelorn," was in one corner conversing with Alva Cooper, sophisticated man about town, and Grace Davis, who discovered that the Fountain of Youth is giggling. A silence fell as Her Excellency, Lenora Brown, Governess of Georgia, entered on the arm of her press-agent, Randolph Jones. At the table, I sat between "Pete" Davison, who has taken Mr. Allen's place as French professor, and George Hardy, newly elected Dean of J. C. A. Across the table sat Margaret Kelly, who is German professor at J. C. A. since Mr. Anderson liked German well enough to settle down there with a fraulein. At her right was Barney Frost, talking animatedly about his botanical discoveries made in Guatamala, which puzzle even Mr. Griffin. At her left was George "Dusty" Rhodes, the inventor of revolving dance floors, which save walking around between pieces, and his chief salesman Warren Pollard. Also at the party were Mildred Davis, Sara Dunaway, Mary Hamilton, Mary Louise Toole, Ola Mae Read, and Mildred McClendon, who teach at the Galloway-Eubanks Psychological Institute. Chief topics of conversation were the marriage of Alex Doremus to a fabulously wealthy old widow, whom he vows to love for her money and wrinkles, and the new book, "How to Hold a Wife" by "five times married" Marvin Holley. Late arrivals to the party were Dorothy Lazenby, commercial artist for the Hearnosqueaks Bed-Spring Co., Liddon Sheridan, Baptist minister, who is sponsoring a campaign to send Virginia Hall and William Hardin as missionaries to China; Ed Stelling and Pat Redd, who run a flourishing date-bureau; and Irene Weatherers, inventor of smokeless cigarettes and chewless chewing gum. Feminine hearts fluttered when Roy Steed, the second Clark Gable, entered with Frances Roper, J. C. A. librarian. Our hostess suggested that we all go to the super-colossal show at the Hippodrome, recently erected by Alva Folsom. On the way, Alva Cooper told me confidentially that Harry Mobley may be commissioned as Major-General soon.

The first act consisted of Conrad Smith and his famous man-eating lions. Then came Eva Ilderton in a breath-taking tight-rope dance. Warren Bell on the flying trapeze floated through the air with the greatest of ease. William Evans exhibited his two-headed giant, which he discovered in Africa amid much admiration from the audience. The former "Follies" beauty, Mary Hightower, sat in the box office, selling tickets. The climax of this Spectacular Entertainment was the "I Haunt U" Spook Show, chief spook of which was Fred Scott. Vera Gunn, Jane Copeland, and Julia Richards were hair-raising as headless triplets. Roy Grizzell rattled around as the skeleton.

The next morning I left for Palm Beach. On the train I chatted with Elizabeth Prescott, the world famous Lady Cop, who was on her way to spend a week with Sara Morgan and her husband in their modernistic farm house.

When I arrived in Palm Beach, I was astounded to find that Marian Martin had instigated an intellectual revolution by her refusal to speak anything but Latin. In the station I met Chief Justice of the Supreme Court, the R. H. Samuel Eugene Tyson with his private secretary Julia Harrell. While lunching with them, I saw Elizabeth Howard, who is known around the world as "the girl on the cover" of the most elite magazines. One tires quickly of Palm Beach; therefore I decided to motor to Daytona to see Belva Dixon, woman automobileist, defy death by driving 500 miles per hour. By the roadside was a huge sign which read, "Jack Jordan's Deaf and Dumb School." Edna Harrell and Lucile Thomas, Physical Directors.

By far the most famous night club in Daytona is run by Charles Farr. I insisted upon going there. Ermine Cater with her husky voice is making a big hit as a blues singer. The orchestra leader winked; and upon looking closely, I discovered that he was none other than Dan McFaden. Sam Saye arose just then to perform a saxophone solo, which detracted my attention from Dan. At 1 o'clock the Floor Show began. A lovely ballroom number was executed gracefully by—guess! Jack Fortune, Nancy Florence, Charles Fortune, and Dorothy Lackman. Immediately afterwards, that famous vaudeville team of Thomas Clarey, George Marshall, and Sim Morris began their wise-cracking. Glancing at the next table I beheld Leland Chisolm, Daytona Fire Chief, with his guests Virginia Gefpert and her wealthy fiancee, whom I later met.

There is nothing more to say, for I know you must be worn out by this epistle. Should I discover any more interesting news, I will write.

Love,

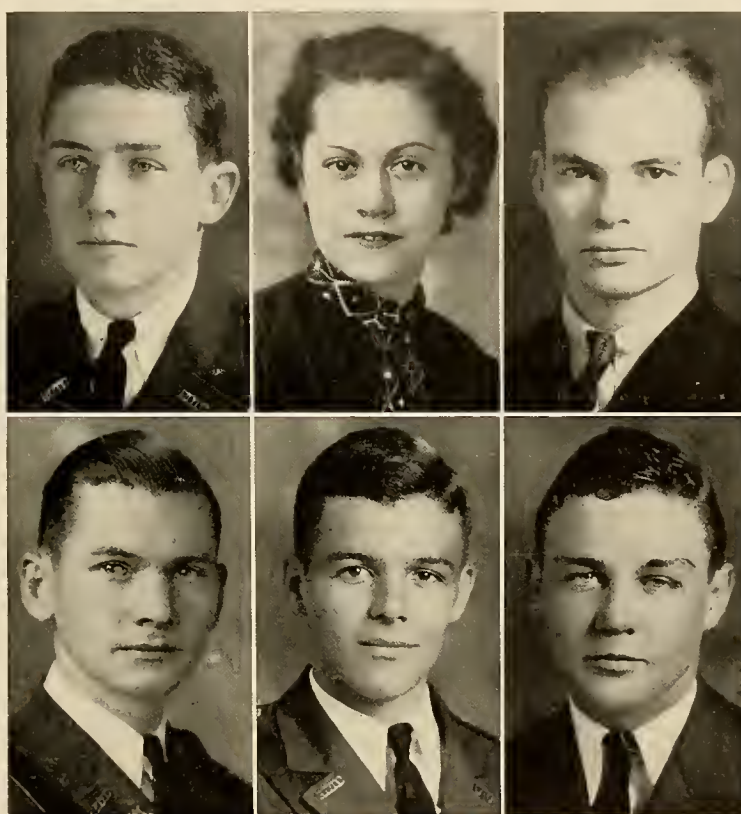

Ada.

Last Will and Testament

By PAUL BAILEY

Georgia, Richmond County.

We, the class of 1937, being of unsound and indisposing mind and memory, do make, publish, and declare our last will and testament. Having for four years (or more) struggled through the long, hard grind, and having in the said period of questionable length accumulated certain memories, traditions, individual traits of character, and material objects, do hereby generously bequeath the said accumulations as follows:

The inimitable Eugene Van Ness Maricius Alexius Goetchius leaves to Milton Hochmuth his eccentric motions, striking posture and brilliant oratory.

Neal Fine, Grady McRae, E. C. B. Danforth III, and Linnell Pond will their homespun wit to anyone who is in such desperate straits as to take it.

Bobby Maxwell, Henry Claussen, and Leslie Youngblood pass on to some luckless undergraduate thousands of empty bottles of "Slickum Slimy and Smellum Sweet Stacomb."

Our handsome cheer leader "Pretty Boy" Bruce, wills his megaphone to anyone who will take the thing.

Thomas Joseph Vaughan Boeckman bequeaths his brain to the science department, to be used in microscopic work.

Gunnels Mize transmits his uncanny gift of predicting Physics tests to Carl Simon.

Paul Bailey, the class "dope," leaves numerous water pistols, picturesque garments, and his shy, angelic qualities for all the Juniors to fight over.

Jack Ouzts, our illustrious class president, decides that he has been too serious and has worked too hard these four years, and therefore he has nothing worthy of being left to our posterity.

In continuance of our policy of generosity, we have obtained several items which will serve as substitutes for the departing members of our class, and which, we feel sure, will preserve the glory of the class of '37 through the coming generations. They are as follows:

A jumping jack that croons, replacing Willie Merritt.

An overripe tomato to remind our grandchildren of the delicate tint of Lucian Chaney's face.

A pair of stilts in place of Preston Towns.

Two worn-out wire brushes to take the place of H. Jarrell Sheppard's and DeS. Philpot's luxuriant hair.

A leopard with the measles as a reminder of Jimmy Lazenby's championship freckles.

As an effective substitute for the unparalleled B. Roy Smith, a phonograph record containing dumb questions.

Wads of exhausted gum to remind posterity of Cooper Warr and George Sancken.

Armfuls of books to preserve the memory of those two great intellects Billy Cochrane and Henry Ivey.

Finally, in a more serious mood, we who are about to graduate (we hope) bequeath the honor and high standards of the A. R. C. to all underclassmen, to be upheld by them.

We leave to Mr. Skinner, Mr. Hardy, and the faculty our sincere gratitude and appreciation for the patience and care which they have shown us.

We appoint as executors C. M. Askey, Alfred Battay, and John J. Sullivan, who will probably be found gracing the roster of the class of '38 next year.

Signed: Class of 1937 of the Academy of Richmond County.

Class Prophecy of 1937

Dear Jack Ouzts, I'm writing you,
In hope that you will like this, too.
Others have read it and thought it swell,
So I hope you will like it just as well.
The following list is of future events,
Everything happens in nineteen fifty cents.

Alfred Battey is on the vaudeville stage,
With Roy Smith, they are all the rage.
Paul Bailey makes striped dye for sox,
Henry Claussen runs the Savannah River locks.
Eugene Goetchius makes love on the screen,
While Claude Hill has found a way to keep lean.
Charles Whaley is still a golf amateur,
But Jim Stovall fell for the radio's lure.
Billy Cochrane is a gangster with a desire to kill,
Jimmie Crouch is married to "Diamond Lil."
DeS. Philpot is teaching in our dear old school,
T. Balk is now managing "Kelley's Pool."
Alex Barrett is in Atlanta with Al Capone,
Willie Merritt invented a new type of 'phone.
Frank Rinker has inherited his father's store,
And Gunnels Mize has become a terrible bore.
Eddie Danforth will be a major soon,
While Neal Fine at last has learned to spoon.
Clarence Baston is pushing the plow,
While Lucian Chaney is learning how.
Leslie Youngblood writes a novel of thrills,
Jack McGee is soda-jerker down at "Hill's."
Dick Elliott is a lolly-pop maker,
And Harrison Pritchard is a carnival faker.
Billy Wheeless is the Chief of the Scouts.
Tom Boeckman is refereeing boxing bouts.
Lester Neal is a hen-pecked hubby,
While Henry Ivey earns the nick-name "Chubby."
Billy Wheeless is breeding pedagreed collies,

William Chapman is starring in "Zeigfeld Follies."
Lester Schofield is with the White Sox now,
Jarrell Sheppard runs the Altamaha scow.
Harvey Purvis is a doctor on a ship,
Otis Hamby in the circus does the flip-de-flip.
Max Roesel has joined the Marines.
Wilfred Neill tinkers with flying machines.
Tom Baker still runs with Dorothy Lackman,
Louis Griffin is owner of a popular hack-stand.
Walter Murray writes prose and rhymes,
Clinton Wheeler makes counterfeit dimes.
Joe Curtis decided that he would buy Kress,
Charles Davant helped him and made a big mess.
Billy Calhoun is an automobile salesman,
Julian Eubanks has a route as a mailman.
Carlisle Hall leads a military band,
Tom Meehan sells canary-bird sand.
Vernon Scott is the champion broad-jumper,
David Wright has a patented auto bumper.
Red Pond is called a "man about town,"
Billy Dinsmore is a circus clown.
Julian Baldowski owns a skating rink,
Grady McRae is a gigilo, I think.
O. B. Verdery has replaced Fred Astaire,
Preston Towns sells shoes by the pair.
Arnold Gehrken is known as "Billy the Rat,"
Boyce Long wrote a book called "Life is Like That."
Charles Bruce is a Latin instructor,
Milledge Peterson is a street car conductor.
Now I'll have to stop,
To return to my shop.

Class History

In the year nineteen hundred thirty-five, or thereabouts, a huge host of happy, hilarious freshmen entered the portals of Dear Old Richmond. From "grammar school" they had come to what was practically their Valhalla. Their joy knew no bounds when at last they were able to parade about in glittering uniform. Even a Valhalla has its drawbacks, the freshmen soon discovered. If one of them could find his class in less than an hour, he was considered practically a mental wizard. The fearful schedule system was considered as conceived by Satan himself. All in all, the poor freshmen were thoroughly disgusted with their first year.

At last this enormous quantity of juvenile humanity reached the sophomore stage in their metamorphosis, so to speak. Some of their enthusiasm had been squelched while freshmen, but now it was replenished. These newly-hatched sophomores took great delight in acting important (so they imagined) before their "inferiors." Their worries were now magnified a hundredfold. Demerits still flowed as copiously as ever in all directions, especially their own. The most exquisite torture to the beleaguered sophomore was the bearing of a rifle (which, by the way, weighed eight hundred sixty-nine pounds, or something of the sort.)

From the smoldering ruins of the bedraggled and war-worn sophomores arose, Phoenix-like, the Junior Class. Thus far, their every aspiration had been hopelessly dashed. The only light which shone before them in the enshrouding darkness was the brilliant beacon of seniorship. To this guiding star every junior hitched his wagon.

One cannot (or can one) forever remain a lowly under classman. Ergo, this body of aspiring youths, whose story we have followed since their freshman days, became seniors (or, rather, part of them did.) Those exalted beings, called seniors, stooped not to scorn the poor lower classes. They, the sons of their world, condescended to marvel at the small and yet increasingly small size of the freshmen. The senior, after four (or more) years of work, is complete. His predominant thought is, "Today I am a man!"

Finis.

Eugene Van Ness Goetchius.

Alma Mater

Written by Dean Eric W. Hardy

(Music—Haydn's "Creation")

Our Alma Mater glorious stands
By old Savannah's turbid stream,
Upreared by loyal hearts and hands,
Fulfillment of her children's dream.
Her noble sons adown the years,
Have proved their courage, conquered fears,
On fields of glory, honor, tears,
Inspired by Alma Mater.

Her last-born sons go forth to prove,
'Mid scenes of joy, 'mid scenes of strife,
The strength of her sustaining love,
Her tested armament of life.
They go at duty's stern command,
On sea, in sky, or distant land,
Led on by touch of spirit hand,
Of our dear Alma Mater.

A gracious mother, fair and wise,
Ten thousand sons she yet shall bear,
With souls unseared in honor's eyes,
With zeal to do, with will to dare.
And when their well-spent days are told,
From every deed of hero bold,
Weave thou a crown more rich than gold,
For brow of Alma Mater.

Academy Cadets on Parade in 1917

IN REVIEW

There's a burst of martial music,
And the band steps out apace;
The serried ranks are broken,
And they're wheeling into place.
Then the grand and glorious feeling
As the flag is passing by,
With its Stars and Stripes before you
There against the eastern sky.
And the sound of marching soldiers,
The rhythmic tramp of feet,
As they're stepping quickly, marching
In parade, on down the street . . .
And their eyes are proud and steady,
As they're passing, passing you;
There's reason for their martial pride,
They're Richmond—in review!

Martha Louise Cooper.

Military History

In August 1863, during the progress of the Civil War, the Academy was taken over as a hospital by the Confederate authorities. After Lee's surrender and the arrival of Federal troops, the Academy was used as military barracks by the Federal forces stationed in Augusta.

School was reopened on January 1, 1868. The Academy was made essentially a military institution, the pupils composing a uniformed company which was regularly drilled. On the reorganization of the school in 1873, the military department was discontinued.

In 1882, on recommendation of the faculty, the trustees of the Academy instituted a military department. One hundred muskets with bayonets were secured from the Great Western Gun Works at Pittsburgh, Pa., and seventy-five sets of accoutrements, consisting of a waist belt, a cartridge box, and bayonet, were ordered from Columbus, Ohio. An American play was donated by a group of Augusta ladies headed by Mrs. W. C. Sibley. The upper west hall of the Academy was fitted up as an armory.

The battalion was organized into three companies of single rank, the small cadets forming the third company. Captain J. O. Clark was obtained as military instructor. The battalion drilled one hour, three times a week.

The large open space to the east of the Academy building, which had been used as a garden, became the parade ground. This military department was discontinued in 1888.

Ten years later, the military department was restored with Major George P. Butler as commandant.

On his retirement in 1919, Major E. C. B. Danforth, a veteran of the World War, was made commandant. Under Major Danforth extended order drill was added.

Up through 1920 the privates wore a tight blue jacket with brass buttons and a turned down collar, grey service trousers, black shoes, and a stiff little cap of the style of the 1860's. For dress wear, the privates wore white duck trousers, instead of the grey ones, and white gloves. The officers wore a looser coat, hooked in the front, with shoulder straps and plenty of black braid. The rest of the officers' uniforms was the same as that of the privates. In 1921 the privates' uniforms were made identical with officers' uniforms, except for the shoulder straps.

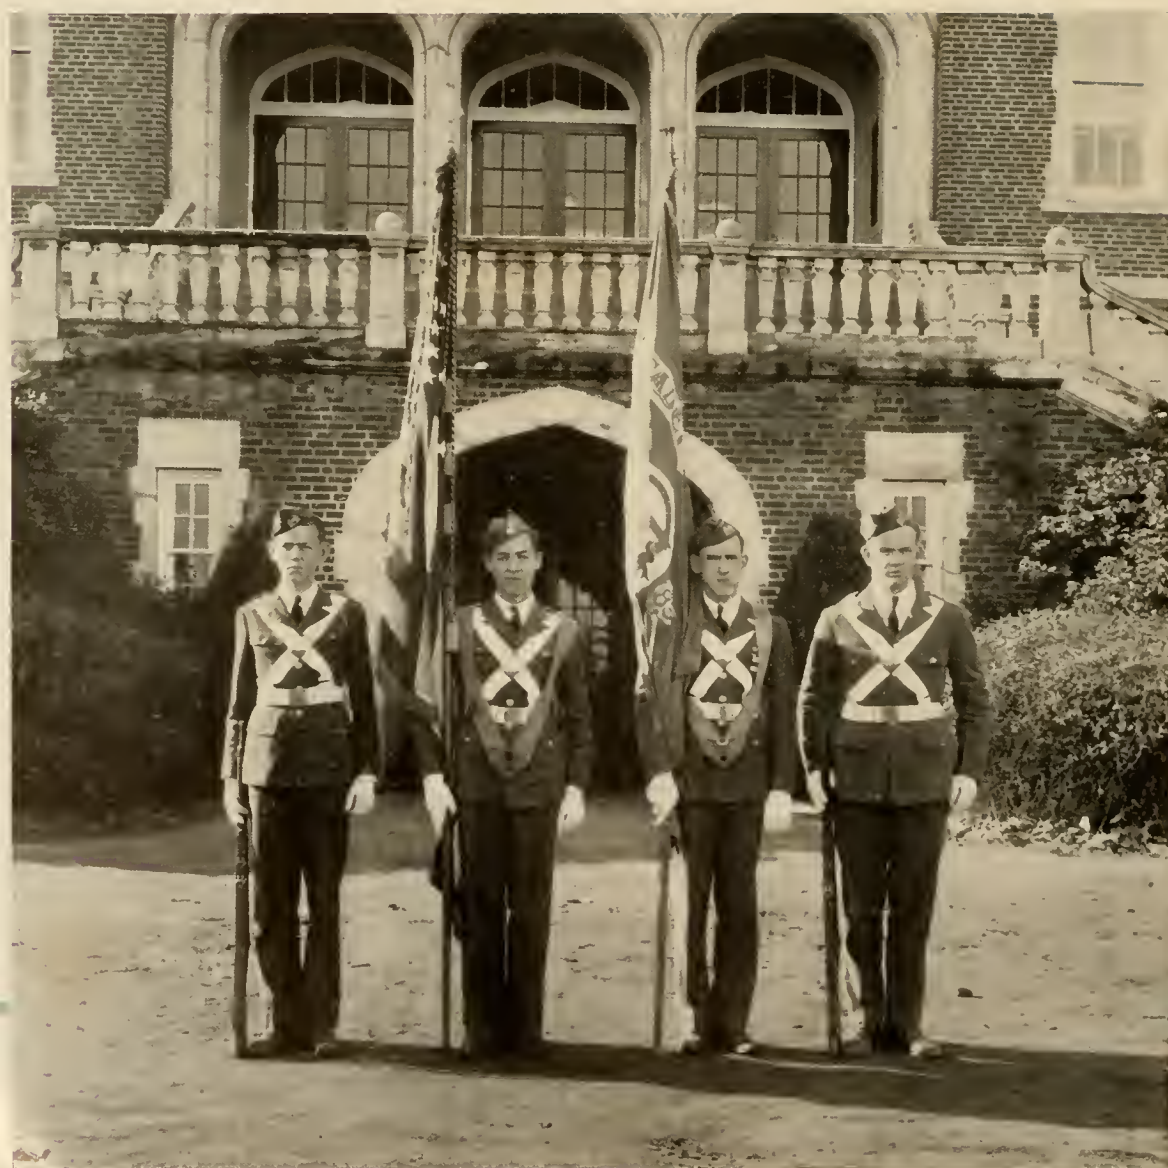

In 1922 Major Danforth resigned and was replaced by Col. Charles B. Whitney. In Col. Whitney's one year of service a regiment was formed, composed of two battalions of three companies each, instead of the one battalion of four companies.

On Col. Whitney's resignation, Col. J. T. Hains became commandant. He drilled the companies into regulation platoons and organized a class in military science and tactics.

When the Academy was moved to its present site in 1926 a regular R.O.T.C. unit was formed, and the old uniform was replaced by the olive drab uniform. Major A. G. Goodwyn, U. S. A. retired, previously commandant at the Citadel, and Sergeant J. A. Leipold were assigned by the War Department as military instructors.

In 1932 Col. Goodwyn was replaced by First Lieutenant Purswell and in 1935 Sergeant Leipold was transferred and Sergeant William C. McGee took his place.

1937 Rifle Team

R. O. T. C. rifle teams are normally composed of fifteen firing members.

Matches fired annually are the Corps Area Matches, the Hearst Trophy Match, and the National Intercollegiate Match.

Our rifle team finished sixth in the Corps Area Match this Spring. It finished first in the Hearst Trophy Match in this Corps Area, and the National Intercollegiate Match is being fired with a fine chance of winning it also as the annual goes to press.

The outstanding feature of the team was not any one individual shot, but a well-balanced, consistently-shooting team with good morale.

Much of the team's success goes to the hard work of Sergeant W. C. McGee.

JOHN W. O'DANIEL, Major Infantry,
Commandant.

CAMPUS CLOSEUPS

I. ON COMING TO SCHOOL:

Darn that guy! He wouldn't give yer a lift fer nothing, and me with my ears half froze. This wind is enough to—gosh, thanks fer stoppin'. Oh, I don't mind the rattles, just so I get there. You're a farmer, I s'pose. Just guessed. All those chicken crates tied on the back, you know. Say, don'tcha think you got a flat—a trifle bumpy, huh? What of it? Oh, nothin', I sorter thought you might be interested in knowin'. Most people are. What makes you think I go to the Academy? My uniform?—some detective, I'll say! No, sir, next corner. Sure, I see. You can stop better here. No, sir, I'm not hurt—just didn't expect that door to open so easy. Well, thanks, old timer. So long! Hope you hold together 'til you get to town. Hey, Foozy, what's the time? Two minutes till? Thanks. Guess I better speed it up. Hang this shoestring! Darn it all, dropped 'em again. Books are a nuisance, anyhow. Wonder where all these papers and stuff came from? Gosh, there's Sally! Hey, Sally, wait up—WAIT! Don't then, snooty. See if I care, Miss Two-Timer. Girls can pick up some of the dumbest guys to associate with. Now wonder where she coulda—darn it, I'm NOT wandering in the hall. So! I'm locked out again, huh. Just my luck. Open up, you mugs. It ain't no crime to be tardy. O. K., stare, you owl-eyed old billy-goat. I don't know, sir—musta started out too late. Yes, sir, I'll bring an excuse tomorrow.

II. ON BEING DISMISSED FROM THE LIBRARY:

Say, you can't do this to us! Why, we wasn't batting an eye. It's wholesale injustice; that's what it is! You just always THINK we're up to something. You can't prove it, though. No, sir, she can't prove it; can she fellows? Sassin' you? You call a little self-defense sassin', I guess! We're going, ain't we? Quit shovin', you fellows. Whatsa rush, anyhow? Nobody's scared of that little woman. She won't do nothin'. Last guy down stairs is a monkey's uncle!

III. ON BEING OVERCOME IN THE HALLS:

Gosh, grab a handkerchief quick, Sara! Mr. Scruggs is frying rotten eggs again. It's spring, you know, and the chemistry students must express themselves in some way or other. Bet a girl could make a fortune on clothes pins around here at this time of year. Really, we should go into business. Of course, gas-masks would come in handy—but they would be rather extreme, don't you think? Look, an open window in Mr. Simpson's room. Ah, it's already over-crowded! Say, make 'em move, wontcha? Oh, nothin', I reckon. Guess I shouldn't have eaten so many hamburgers for lunch.

IV. ON LOUNGING IN THE GIRLS' ROOM:

Honey, did you notice that dress she was wearing? Well, you musta been blind. Red and yellow, I'll have you know. It's like a slap in the face to look at it. No, Dot, I have not moved your lipstick. It's an ugly color, anyhow. Somebody reach up and open a window before we all smother. Hang it all, I coulda sworn I hung my coat fifth hook from the mirror. Who's seen my tennis shoes? The ones I play basketball in, foolish. I don't think she's one bit like Scarlett O'Hara. She's too puny, don'tcha think? Say, who broughtcha to the dance last night? I had all my no-breaks filled, too—and let me tell you, gal, my fifth one was a honey. Cute! Gee, that's mild. Oh, I wore my rose satin. Say, are you trying to tell me after all these years that Columbus didn't discover America? I don't care whatchoo read. We aren't arguing—we are just disagreeing. I did not lose your comb! As I was telling you, he said, "Sure," and I said, "Well, that's fine," and then he said— I love the way you fix your hair. Wait, I think I know it now. England entered the Crimean War because . . . Ruby, nail polish is just what you need. Darn, there goes the buzz. I'll finish tellin' you when I get back.

ODE TO A GRAMMAR-SCHOOL TEACHER

There they stood, like young globe batters, with no salary enriched
Waiting for the words momentous that the dextrous teacher pitched
And she hurled the first one at them, like a nicely twisted ball,
While the catcher right behind them was the horny-handed wall.

The first boy struck and missed, and his face was deeply vexed,
As the teacher scowled a cyclone and vociferated, "Next!"
Then a fair-haired maiden tried it with some sympathetic aid,
And avoiding certain blunders that her predecessor made;
But she happened, too, to wander from the orthographic text,
And the teacher smiled in pity as she softly murmured, "Next!"

Then a cross-eyed boy struck at it, who to this day spells by ear;
And a red-haired girl attacked it with her pale eyes full of fear;
And the word flew on till one boy, very ignorant, but sharp-eyed,
Spelled it by the only method that had not as yet been tried.

Then the teacher smiled approval, and with satisfaction said,
"That is right, my studious scholar, you may go up to the head!"

—Clarence Levy.

JUNE

The June-month, somewhere rhyming hours with sun,
Dispatches southward May in mild invasion,
Sends a prophet tongued with warm persuasion,
Counsels May to treat of June's vacation—
Interlude about to be begun.

The campus drowns in a lazy glow . . .
A period bell divulges drifting hours . . .
The restless student turns from books to flowers . . .
Delightful June approaching is so slow!

The June-month, somewhere rhyming mirth with grief,
Distills to perfect volume keen elation
With a weight of youthful contemplation,
Whence then this prolonged sweet-sad sensation—

Now the time remaining is but brief.
Comes June, these students strolling in each hall
Must wear the cap and gown, take leave, endow
To some true echo footsteps, voices now
Alive—and not forev'r beyond recall.

The June-month, somewhere rhyming hope with youth,
Prepares a rose-jar in commemoration
Of each precious, reverend association,
Dedicated in the month of graduation
To youth and hope—a psalm of lasting truth.

—Lenora Brown.

MISCHIEF IN THE MOON

He held my hand—I know 'twas wrong—
He kissed me, then he smiled, to wink;
I told him, "Go away! Fer shame!"
I meant it, too, I almost think.
And then he laughed and looked at me,
While both his arms closed 'round me tight;
(There's mischief in the moon, some say;
I know there was that wondrous night.)
And then I spoke, "Oh, let me go!
You mustn't! Don't you know it's wrong?"
But when he said, "I love you, sweet,"
The sin turned to a lovely song.

—Martha Louise Cooper.

COLLEGIAN

Lounger along campus paths, indolent
Swaggerer in rough sports clothes, idler musing over curling smoke-rings, lover of the mellow smells of jacket wool and briar smoke in the winey air. A varsity letter across his chest. Slow, loyal Listener at dull lectures, dreamer through dry lectures, whimsical dreamer of dreams whimsical as breeze-driven smoke and brown leaves. An open book before him unread.
Pencil-tapping
Scribbler of love-runes to a star-eyed scribbler across the aisle. The brown leaves and the brown campus path and the scribbler across the aisle are responsible for the book unread.
 Whistler of jazz tunes,
 Blower of raucous jazz horns,
 Member of Rho Chi,
 Contributor to Musketeer and mouthpiece of student council.
 Blithe
Dabbler in wisdom, laughing
 Painter of laughing fantasies,
 Composer of harmonies, rough and deep and vibrant with life.
Squanderer of energy, free
 Spender of promised tomorrows,
 Answerer of unanswerables, fretting to answer
 where gray heads save breath.
Challenger of a restive world, youth and strength and burning ideal impatient to try against age and cunning, and straining to taste
 the glory in the cups of old unyielding warriors.
Reaper of stars, impatient to reap, and, in doing, to break free of the palsied old hand that seeks to count under the wrist the strong pulse, and that cannot count for feeling always its own slow pulse beats.
 Lover of whole life, ardent Defender of youth, the youth that is the tall proud lounger along the campus path.

—Lenora Brown.

I've got to make a ninety-five

I've got to do it, Mother says,
Or I can't go to the dance.
Martha Louise Cooper.

FROM ME—TO YOU

If a song were sung
To the tune of love,
And the words came out of the blue;
If the song were sung
By a whispering breeze,
The song's from me to you.
If a flower buds
At the edge of a brook,
Fragrant in scent and in hue;
If the flower's plucked,
Sacrificed to love,
The flower's from me to you.
If an ode is composed
By a Master's pen
That seems to caress and woo
With a rhythm that ripples
And runs through your heart,
The poem's from me to you.
The song and the flower,
The passionate rhyme,
And add a heart that is true;
A love that's eternal,
A love that is strong—
All that—from me to you.

—Martha Louise Cooper

MEDODRAMA

THE SCENE:

Modest hamlet, sunny dell,
Corner bar-room, village well;
Rustic background, harvest crop,
Painted on the canvas drop.

CHARACTERS:

City villain, moustached, mean,
Lovely Nell, the village queen,
Stalwart Jack, whom she prefers.
And several moss-backed villagers.

PLOT:

Lovely Nell's enticed away
By a pretense one fine day;
She spurns the villain, no avail;
The villain ties her to the rail.

CLIMAX:

Stalwart Jack, all out of breath,
Snatched her from the jaws of death;
Villain gets an awful biff,
And crashes off the card-board cliff.

FINALE:

Toward the village, then, go back
Lovely Nell and Stalwart Jack;
"Bless you, children," says her pop;
Let the big green curtain drop.

—Martha Louise Cooper

WISDOM IN MY NURSERY RHYMES

Sing a song of six-pence,
A pocket full of rye;
A brain that's crammed with Algebra,
Theorems—and pi.
When the brain's matured,
And knowledge ought to sing,
Why, then is when you realize
You don't know a doggone thing!

"I fear you'll be forgetting me,"
He says in tones polite;
I am, indeed, for getting him,
That's why he's here tonight.

I sat me down and thought profound,
This maxim wise I drew:
'Tis easier far to love a man
Than make a man love you.

Your car it not as swell as Tom's,
You dance much worse than Fred,
You haven't got a line like Bill,
Nor are you blond, like Ted;
You aren't a football star, like Bob,
Or a millionaire, like Lee—
So you wonder why I love you—
Well, the others don't love me.

Mark me as a worthless creature,
Stupid, full of tricks,
Void of a redeeming feature,
Crafty, good for nix.
Speak of me as being lazy,
Brand me as a brute—
But never, never, never
Dare to call me cute!

I sat me down and studied.
Studied! Nay, I crammed
My brain quite full of useless things,
Before it was examined!

What's the use of livin'?
You'll die.
What's the use of lovin'?
You'll cry.
What's the use of kissin'?
He'll tell.
What's the use of anything?
Oh, hell!

Football

The 1937 football season went down as the worst season Richmond Academy has ever experienced. But this is no fault of the fellows that belonged to the 1937 team.

Although it was the worst season for the Academy, it can be said, and has been said, that the 1937 team was the "fightinnest" team A. R. C. has put on the field in many years.

With only two lettermen back from the 1936 team, Coaches Lucky and Gressette did a good job as far as the coaching part goes.

Richmond enjoyed only two victories: over Langley-Bath High School in a pre-season game, and over Commercial High. But we held three championship teams to less than 13 points apiece.

The season's results were as follows:

Richmond	31	Langley-Bath	0
"	8	Glynn Academy	12
"	0	Charleston High	12
"	0	Spartanburg High	13
"	0	Gaffney High	12

The Musketeers will be on the field in '38 with revenge in their hearts; so look out S. H. S., C. H. S., and T. H. S.

As in the past the "B" varsity again enjoyed a most successful season by winning four games from a six-game schedule. The usual material that covers such a page as this is brief sketches of the games played, usually giving credit to one or two players. In place of this, the coaching staff would like to take this opportunity to praise the spirit exemplified by each member of the squad in the games included on our schedule.

It is in this branch of our athletic program that one sees real boys playing a real game for the pleasure that they all seem to receive from their participation.

It is "on this side of the road" that we try to train the younger boy in the fundamentals of the game so that he may be prepared later to venture across the road and play with the "A" varsity.

Each member of the squad who attended practice each day and who showed the well known "B" varsity competitive spirit was rewarded at the end of the season by being presented a certificate drawn up in a very attractive form. This is the first time that the boys have ever received any acknowledgement of their efforts

There remains only one other point to make: the splendid co-operation and spirit. The boys lost one of the best coaches that they ever had, one who had been untiring in his efforts and one who had for the past few years worked wonders for the "B" varsity. Yet, the new staff received the same co-operation that Coach Charlie Royston had received in the past.

Basketball Season for 1936-1937

When Coach Charlie Royston called for basketball practice to begin, it was suspected by members of last year's team, which included three letter-men, that prospects were exceedingly bright.

The members of the team elected Preston Towns for the captain.

The schedule called for the first games at Savannah. The half caught B. C. ahead 7-6. After that the boys of A. R. C. could not get going and B. C. won, 26-12. Towns played best for Richmond.

On the following night they were engaged with Savannah High. Off to an early lead, Savannah easily won, 43-28. Towns again showed up best.

Then came the heart-breaking game with Columbia High. After coming from far behind to take a 28-27 lead with only twenty seconds to play, everything went wrong and Columbia scored five points to win. Parrish scored 12 points, with every man playing well.

Then Lady Luck changed her attitude and the Musketeers romped on the same Columbia team 26-20. The next night the Cadets got revenge for their loss to B. C. by giving them a sizeable beating, 25-15.

Savannah came to town and again got off to an early lead, winning 31-16.

Then came the Sporters, city champions, and Avera. Both were beaten 19-16, with good guarding being seen rather than much shooting. Lum Yee played well.

A trip to Anderson ended in a 33-20 defeat. In a return game, the Musketeers got off to an early lead, but were beaten in the dying minutes, 29-26. Milburn Ratteree and Parrish were the goal-getters for A. R. C., Ratteree getting 7, and Parrish 9.

Then came the journey to the annual G. I. A. A. Richmond lost for the second straight year to Commercial in the first game. The score was 31-18.

The Musketeers are now waiting for next year and a more enjoyable season.

"B" Varsity Basketball

For the first time in the history of the school, Academy has been represented by a "B" Varsity team, in addition to the "A" team.

Because of the large number of candidates that reported for practice, and their eagerness to show what they could do, it was decided to organize the "B" team.

Although the men were inexperienced, they showed plenty of fight, and should be the first team in the years to come.

The team consisted of Roy Krouse, center; "Bubber" Verdery and Eugene Gilbert, forwards; Jimmy Cooper and George Sancken, guards; Barnes, Jones and Kearns, substitutes. The team was coached by Charlie Stubb, who did a very good job.

The teams which they played were: Wrens, Dearing, Evans, "Y", Junior A. Z. A.'s, Enterprise, Saint Luke, and Harlem. They were beaten by each of the teams but found revenge in return games with Evans, "Y", A. Z. A.'s, Enterprise, and Saint Luke.

J. C. A. Basketball 1937

The Junior College basketball season enjoyed one of its best records in years, winning 16 out of 19 games on its schedule and losing only three. Their only defeats were handed to them twice by Evans, Trade District Champions, and once by Danberry, Tenth District Champions. Even over these teams, J. C. A. enjoyed victory at one time or another.

Even though Dot Newman, Ardene Mershon, and Martha Herman, last year's stellar players, did not return; Edna Harrell and Elizabeth Howard were back to hold down their regular forward positions, and Vivienne O'Byrne, versatile star, who is capable of filling either the guard or forward position. Other veterans back this year were Joyce Lawrence, Dot Lackman, Nancy Florence, Ruth Waller, and Ermine Cater. With these stand-bys plus the incoming Material, the J. C. A. team reaches a higher peak this year than ever before. It developed a formidable defense, as displayed by the fact that a fewer number of points were scored on the team than in previous years.

At no time during the season was the ambitious, competitive spirit and team work of the Jaguars better than at the onset. After seven consecutive victories, the team received its first defeat at the hands of Evans. After this the team lost its momentum, which it failed to recover throughout the remainder of the schedule. As a result of the untiring efforts of Coach Simpson—the accurate shooting and careful floorwork of Edna Harrell, Elizabeth Howard, and Anne Stulb, together with the expert guarding of Vivienne O'Byrne, contributed to the success of the entire season.

The Golf Team for this year is almost the same as last year's. The team is composed of Jimmy Lee, Charles Whaley, Joe Mulherin, Joe Ogilvie, Steve Mulherin, Jackie Waller and Harcourt Waller. The Junior College and Academy teams, combined, defeated the U. S. Marines of Parris Island March 20.

The Golf Team should win all matches this year as there is very little competition. The team should also do much better in the G. I. A. A. Golf Tournament.

This year the Junior College is turning out the strongest tennis team in the history of this institution.

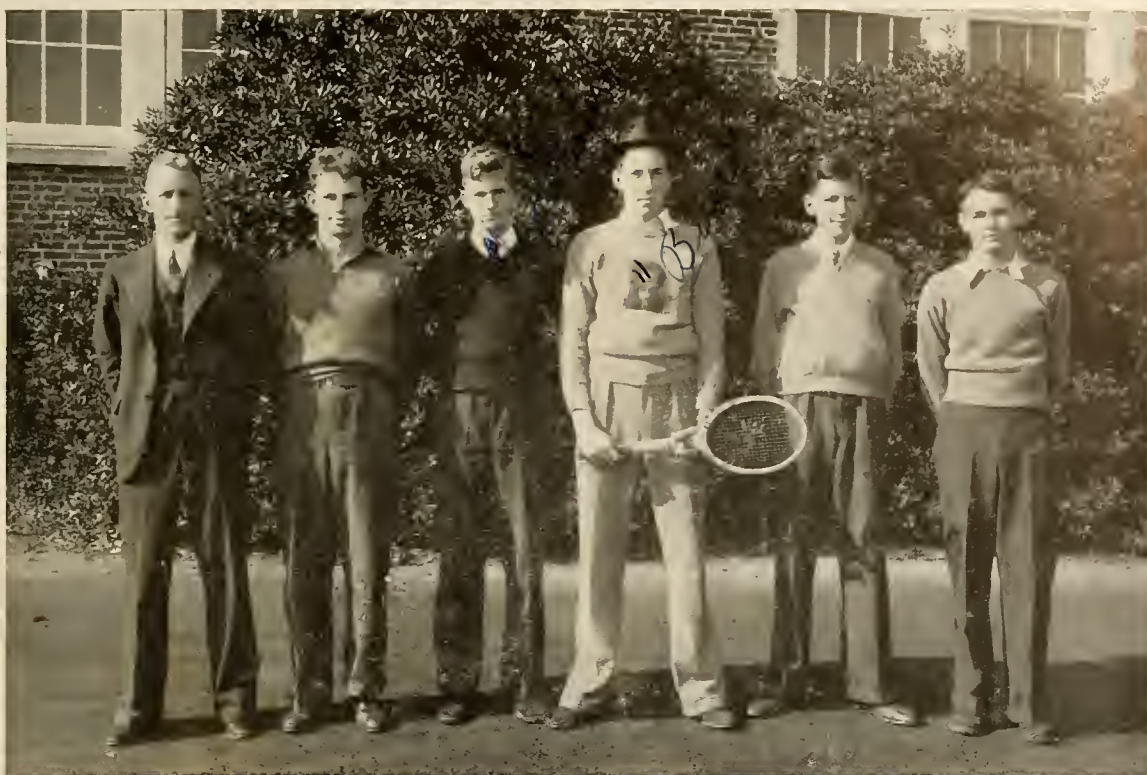

Only three members of last year's team are now on the squad: Charles Fortune, who played at No. 4 last year is one of the most dependable men on the team. Bobby Glickert, the No. 1 man on last year's team is back, and promises to be even better than he was last year. The other man is Dan McFaden, who also played well last year.

Joining these veterans are "Wish" Redd, Richmond's No 1 man last year, and Frank Robinson, No. 2 man on last year's Academy team. Both of these boys play very good tennis and may oust both Fortune and Glickert from the No. 1 and No. 2 positions. Lewis Newman, Herbert Stelling, and Walstein Wallace will be in the running for varsity posts

In the doubles, Redd will pair up with Glickert, Robinson with Stelling, and Fortune with Newman. All three of these combinations will be hard to beat in competition.

The schedule for this year is the most ambitious ever attempted by the squad, since they will engage Presbyterian College, Wofford, Furman, Armstrong Junior College and the University of Georgia.

Game! Set! Match! Richmond! These should be familiar words to the Richmond racquet wielders at the end of the season.

Tennis felt the loss of last year's graduation rather keenly. Out of the five lettermen of the fine "36" squad, only Billy Calhoun returned.

The squad is composed of Calhoun, Daly, Kearns, Verdery, Gilbert, Stanford, Fine, and Rushton. At the time the Annual goes to press, Billy Calhoun, Jim Daly, John Kearns, and "Bubber" Verdery are counted on for the first four positions, while Gilbert and Stanford are fighting it out for the fifth spot.

Neal Fine and Luke Rushton are also making a strong bid for the team.

The first match on the 1937 schedule, with Porter Military Academy, on March 20, was called off on account of rain, and two others played prior to publication of the Annual, with Anderson in Anderson, and Greenville here, were won by the local team, 7-0 and 5-2, respectively.

The entire schedule follows:

Mar. 20—P. M. A. here.
Mar. 26—Anderson there.
Mar. 27—Greenville here.
April 2—Savannah here.
April 9—Anderson here.

April 10—Greenville there.

Since its founding in 1931, the Gold "R" Society has been recognized as the outstanding honor organization of the Academy. The purpose of the Society is to stimulate the interest of the student at the Academy of Richmond County in all phases of school activity, and to recognize such interest by election of outstanding students to its membership. To be eligible for membership, a student must earn a total of forty honor points distributed in at least three of the following phases of school life: Scholarship, Athletics, R. O. T. C., and Student Activities. Not more than half of the total points may be obtained in any one group. Although the Gold "R" Society is not a scholastic honor organization, no student with an unsatisfactory scholastic record will be eligible for membership, because such a student is not considered a representative student of the Academy.

Points are awarded in the Scholastic group for satisfactory completion of school work, with extra points awarded for honor grades. Points are awarded in Athletics for participation in football, basketball, track, tennis, and golf, with extra points to members of teams who receive letters or win tournaments. Points are awarded in the Military group for advancement in the R. O. T. C. and for membership on the Rifle Team. Points are awarded in the Student Activities

Group for work on school publications, for election to class offices or the Student Council, for participation in the Glee Club and Orchestra, the Debating Teams, Declamation and Oratorical Contests, and the Literary Societies, or for the winning of special contests reflecting credit on the school. At least five points must be made in this group.

Elections are announced at the close of each semester by the Honors Committee of the Academy faculty. This committee passes on all applications for election to membership, and has the power to revise membership requirements to meet changing conditions in school activities. The committee is also required to pass upon the character of any applicant before he is even considered for election to membership, and any member who fails to live up to the highest standards of character will be dropped from membership and required to surrender his Gold "R". The Honors Committee for this year consists of the following members: Dr. J. M. Ellis, Chairman, and Mr. E. M. Allen, Mr. J. M. Buckner, Mr. J. T. Hains, Mr. C. H. Mitchell, and Mr. G. M. Scott.

THE INDEPENDENT DRUG STORES OF AUGUSTA

Our most valuable asset is the goodwill of our customers and the physicians we serve. A feeling of confidence inspired by the knowledge that prescriptions and orders will be filled completely and without substitution. Drug stores listed here are striving continuously to maintain and exceed the standards that are required to merit a continuance of this valuable asset. May we be of service to you?
